THE LAST CHANCE!

A Thrilling Era—The Duty of the Hour—A Splendid Opportunity and a Glittering Prize.

The most exciting and momentous epoch of American history is upon us. A presidential campaign is opening, which will decide for democracy and liberty, or radicalism and the downfall of republican government. The recent democratic victories inspire the hopes of freemen. Business is reviving, and the people seek eagerly for political and general information. Consequently, newspapers are more eagerly sought and are being taken to every intelligent household, as the greatest source of home education and amusement.

In addition to his county journal, every person should take one great City paper, which furnishes the latest Telegraphic, Commercial, Agricultural, General Intelligence and current news of the day. An opportunity is now presented to subscribe for such a journal, and at the same time without extra charge secure the chance of getting one thousand dollars in gold, or other magnificent present, as set forth below.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, published at the State Capital, the Gate City of the South, ranks among the foremost journals of the United States, and the MAMMOTH EIGHT-PAGED WEEKLY of 48 columns, is the great Family Journal of the South. Its unswerving Democratic career, and its successful struggle with Bullock and Georgia Radicalism, are well known. Every subscriber to it enjoys a privilege unprecedented in the South, namely: A chance to receive one of the following presents, amounting in value to over $5,000 00.

One cash gift, in gold	$1,000
One cash gift, in greenbacks	500
Five cash gifts, in greenbacks	500
One magnificent piano	1,000
One beautiful piano	600

Also, gold and silver watches, seven sewing machines, a $100 oil painting richly framed, complete sets of the best authors prose and poet, and numerous other valuable gifts, presenting by far the most remarkable gift distribution to newspaper subscribers ever known. On application to the undersigned specimen copies of THE CONSTITUTION, will be sent free to any address, with full list of presents and a description of the pianos, one of which is the world-renowned CHICKERING SQUARE GRAND, our piano being the identical one which has taken four or five State Fair premiums.

THE PLAN

is simple. Every subscriber paying ten dollars for the Daily one year, receives a registered card—a club of Weeklies paying ten dollars for five copies one year also receives a registered card. A Weekly subscriber paying ten dollars for 5 years' subscription gets a card. A Daily subscriber paying five dollars for 6 months, or Weekly subscriber paying five dollars for two and a half years, gets a half card.

The presents will be drawn to these cards, by lot, in public, under the management of subscribers, the proprietors having nothing to do with it. Issue of cards limited to 4,000—less than last year.

All the gifts are now in our possession and will be positively awarded without scaling or change in any respect. This is our last distribution and takes place

December 31st, 1874.

This, therefore, is the last chance. At our first distribution, Mr. George Ebert hart received $1,250 in gold for a Madison county club of weeklies.

THE CONSTITUTION contains stories, poetry, miscellaneous and humorous reading. A thrilling new story, "The Maniac Lover," begins in January.

Agents wanted—unparalleled inducements offered.

Those not knowing us we refer to Mayor Spencer and ex-Mayor Hammock, of Atlanta.

Send money by registered letter, post office order or express. Address

W. A. HEMPHILL & Co.,

THE KING OF THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.

Arrival of the Royal Party in San Francisco.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

SAN FRANCISCO, November 29—The steamship Benicia, with the King of Hawaii on board, arrived here to-night. No preparations were made for the reception of the King and his suite, but salutes were fired from the forts and government vessels in harbor. The King and his suite will remain on board to-night. All on board the vessel are well.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 29.—King Kalakaua, King of the Sandwich Islands, was received this morning on the landing at Broadway wharf by a military escort, ordered by Gov. Booth. Salutes were fired from the forts and from the government steamers, Benicia, Saranac and Portsmouth. A large number of people flocked to the city this morning to witness the landing of the royal visitor. The party will remain here a few days, when they will proceed to Washington, after which they intend to visit the principal eastern cities. The king says that he is merely on a visit to the president, and that he will not take any part in the negotiations for the reciprocity treaty. The city authorities took no part in the reception of the royal party.

GLADSTONE'S MANIFESTO.

Bishop Gibbons, of Richmond, Va., Denies the Truth of the Ex-Premier's Charges.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution.]

NEW YORK, November 29.—Bishop Gibbons, of Richmond, Va., in a letter to the Herald, gives his views upon the Gladstone-Manning controversy. He affirms that the declaration of the Pope's infallibility by the Œcumencial council does not in the slightest degree alter the relations existing between the temporal and spiritual powers, but is merely a formal affirmation of the doctrine which has been admitted during the whole existence of the church. The definition of infallibility, according to Bishop Gibbons, strictly confines the papal prerogative to faith and morals, and he declares that Catholics have suffered too much in the sacred cause of liberty to raise their hands against it. He thinks it strange, while Gladstone trembles at the imaginary authority of the pope over the state, he should be indifferent to the actual tyranny of Bismarck over religion.

LOUISIANA POLITICS.

Chuckling of the Louisiana Radicals.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Gen. Field is here for the purpose it is said of lobbying for a joint resolution through congress legitimatising the Kellogg rule in Louisiana. Major Shelley is also here ostensibly in the interest of the levees. Election Supervisor Bean, of Desota parish, is here, northward bound. He registered at the taverns, N. Folsom Bean alias Folsom. He claims a majority for the republicans in the legislature, and chuckles over the ballot stuffing exploits in various parts of the state. The object seems to be to renew the last election by order of congress, leaving that under which Kellogg holds sway intact.

THE STRIKERS.

A Pitched Battle Between the Old and the New.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

PITTSBURGH, November 30.—A pitched battle between the Italian and striking miners resulted in the Italians displaying the white flag and promising to leave tomorrow. Four Italians were killed. Police were on the spot in great force.

The state labor union pledges assistance to the striking longshoremen to the extent of forty or fifty thousand dollars.

Religious Excitement in Pernambuco.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

RIO JANEIRO, November 29.—Religious excitement growing out of a conflict between the Catholic clergy and civil authorities has culminated in serious disturbances in the province of Pernambuco and Para. Sympathizers with the bishops of Para and Pernambuco, who were recently sentenced for violation of the laws of the empire, have made riotous demonstrations. Their cry is, "down with the Masons," and they have attacked several Masonic lodges and bid defiance to the local authorities. Troops and ships have been dispatched to the disturbed district from Pernambuco, Bahia and this city.

Large Fire in Kentucky.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution.]

LOUISVILLE, KY., November 29.—A fire broke out in the stock stables of J. M. Calloway at Eminence, Ky., at two o'clock this morning, which destroyed about $25,000 worth of property including 28 horses, several mules and all the carriages and other contents of stables. Among the horses was a fine thorough bred stallion, "gold chief," valued at five thousand dollars, and the thoroughbred stallion, "Hambletonian star," valued at three thousand.

Justice to Catholics.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution.]

ROCHESTER, N. Y. November 29.—The board of the western house of refuge adopted yesterday, by a vote of 11 to 2, a resolution granting the freedom of religious principle and worship to Catholic boys confined therein, the board to appoint a Catholic chaplain for them. The report of the special committee upon which this action is based, contains the legal opinion from Hon. Henry Selden, in which he affirms such freedom as a constitutional right.

The War in Spain.

(By Telegraph to The Constitution.)

MADRID, November 30.—President Serrano will leave for the north this week, when vigorous operation are anticipated. It is said that the army now numbers 200,000 men, fully armed, and there are 40,000 more waiting for arms, which have been ordered from the United States.

A Violent Storm.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution.]

LONDON, November 30.—There was a violent storm on the east coast of Scotland and England. The bark Veteran was wrecked. There was eleven lost. Other disasters, with some loss of life, are reported.

Paris Carried by the Radicals.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution]

PARIS, November 30.—Municipal elections were held in this city to-day with the following result: Radicals elected 53; moderate republicans 10; conservatives 11. Second ballots has been received in six districts.

The Kentucky Library Postponed.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution.]

LOUISVILLE, KY., November 29.—Ex-Gov. Bramlette, manager of the public library gift concert, announces to-night the postponement of the concert until the last day of February.

Gold Sales.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution.]

WASHINGTON, November 29.—The government sells half a million dollars in gold each Thursday of December.

Deaths.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

STRANDSBURG, PA., November 30.—George Lobar, aged 113, is dead.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Jonathan Sturges, an eminent merchant, is dead.

An Exciting Wrestling Match.

Perhaps no wrestling match that ever took place on the Pacific coast was more intensely interesting, so well contested and so generally satisfactory, because of its freedom from "tricks of the trade," as was that of last night between Professor Miller, the Australian Hercules, and M. Bauer, the French athlete. The latter has a distinguished reputation as a wrestler, and, as a consequence, numbered many friends in sporting circles.

His appearance in the arena with Gerichten a few months since, induced the sceptical to believe him every inch a man of muscle. In that contest he was victorious; nor has he ever been worsted anywhere. The Professor has recently arrived here from Australia, and, though a stranger in this city and no one knew his powers, no one could look upon his giant proportions without according him the fullest praise as a wonderfully developed man, and one to conquer whom in a wrestling match would require first class professionals. While the Frenchman still maintained his locked embrace as he straddled over and tugged at the 207 pounds of flesh within his embrace. [Just here Con. Mooney thinking the fall perfect, ran up to disengage the couple, but Bauer would not release his hold, fully understanding the rules under which he was wrestling. It was explained to Mooney that the two shoulders of the man thrown must touch the ground, and he took his seat.] Miller maintained his hand and knees in resistance to Bauer's effort to raise him; the former knew what would be his fate did he attempt to rise; he, therefore, caught his wind in that posture, while the rugging wrestler above was almost out of breath. A desperate and final effort of Bauer jerked the Professor to his feet, with his opponent fastended to him; it was but for a brief half minute. With a determined effort Miller reached behind him, and grasped the Frenchman's arms, dropped forward and pitched Bauer over his head to the ground. But the wiry Bauer would not down at his bidding. He caught on the flat of his feet and the back of his head, his back being clear of the ground. There he remained with the ponderous Englishman's weight full upon his chest. Here was exhibition of peculiar strength given by the French wrestler never before witnessed. He rested his entire weight upon the back of his head by using the muscles of his neck, and arched his back so as to keep his shoulders clear of the floor. In this position he lay for at least an entire minute, with the whole weight of the Australian contestant on his chest, adding his strength to his weight to make the Frenchman lie flat on the floor. But the struggle could not last, for with continuance of the tremendous pressure the Australian finally forced his man upon his back. A shout greeted this result of a struggle such as was never before witnessed.

Thus ended round first. As the men went to the dressing room to recuperate for the second effort it was plainly visible that they felt severely the result of the extraordinary expenditure of strength on both sides. It was reported that Bauer's neck had been injured, but there was no foundation for the fear:

SECOND ROUND.

The excitement preceding the second round was great; bets were in favor of the Professor. After a rest of fifteen minutes time was called, and both men came in the arena with stubborn determination plainly written upon their faces. They met as in the first round, playing for the hold. This lasted for a few moments, when Bauer caught Miller's neck and doubled his head under his breast, and in this manner lifted him clear off the floor with a Herculean attempt to throw him. But the professor caught on his feet and released his head. Again was the contest renewed, and, before Miller was aware of the trick, Bauer slipped to one side, grasped him and threw him clear over his right arm, and he fell square and flat upon his back, Bauer fell at right angles across his prostrate antagonist. Cheer after cheer greeted Bauer as he trotted behind the scenes. His stock in outside bets rose accordingly.

THIRD ROUND.

It was here announced that this would be the last round, and decide the contest. Of course expectation was on tiptoe, and bets were about even. The men rested, and, being again called, came in on time. They cordially shook hands, but did not smile, as each determined to conquor or break his neck in the effort. The usual sparring, if it may be so called, ensued for holds. They puffed and blew like porpoises; struggled, advanced and retreated like a couple of steers with horns locked. Bauer once forced his man back among the chairs, as he struggled to get Miller's head up in the hope of giving him a fond hug, but Miller would have none of it, and rather backed than risk a vicious grip. At that point a desperate and powerful effort was made by Miller, who hoisted his tough antagonist clean up and dashed him to the ground; but, like a cat, the Frenchman would catch on his feet. Now, the latter being worried about enough, assumed the responsibility of ending the affair in his own favor. He rushed at Miller, seized him sideways, and with the power of a young bull, raised him in the air, threw him to the left and upon the ground; but he fell also—fell flat upon his back, very fraternally by the side of his Australian friend. Bauer first jumped to his feet, and then Miller.

THE CONCLUSION.

It was questionable whether it was a fall, and the umpire declared it "no fall" and that it must be again contested. The wrestlers retired to their dressing room, and there it was ascertained that Bauer had received an injury above the groin, and Miller gallantly said he would not press him to renew the contest under the circumstances, and would agree to make this one a draw, and sign articles for a new match. The umpire stepped upon the stage and declared that as the men refused to try it over, he would declare it a "draw" and all bets off. It was further announced that Miller and Bauer would meet and wrestle a month from last night for $1,000.

Many were loud in their demands for a continuance of the match, but all seemed well satisfied. There was no such thing as shystering, tom-fooling, and shin-kicking in the business, but a well sustained, fair contest between well developed, athletic and powerfully muscled men. Such wrestling, say sporting men, has seldom been witnessed.

Substance or Shadow.

Well, I had not been five years the subordinate of Dr. Isaacs without finding some things stranger than fiction. I suspected that Miss Anais (with a dieresis over the i) had not told me the whole story. Women never do, or almost never, tell the whole truth. They have been slaves for a very long time; they have learned to withhold some parts of the truth. It is the instinct of oppressed creatures and hunted animals. Not all our boasted emancipation of women has yet achieved this freedom. Women may always be wronged by their male relatives. Fathers, husbands and brothers are not responsible to anybody for the manner in which they treat their women. Unjust suspicions, wrongs which women do not like to mention, may, and oft are, keeping an apparently free woman in a state of slavery, from which she has no deliverance. How can she be frank and truthful under circumstances of such burning injustice? In all my experience of female patients I had never had the whole truth from any of them. They told me what they liked—I found out the rest.

So I began in my quiet way to watch Miss Anais, and after four weeks I could only make to myself one confession: she was absolutely sane, and I was desperately in love with her.

From the very first she had taken Mrs. Crowder by storm. She had voted herself the lieutenant of that lady,—and was tireless in her attentions to our unfortunate people. Often at the dead of night, as I was called to the bedside of some afflicted creature, did I find Anais (with the most distracting blue dressing-gown on) helping Mrs. Crowder in the best style.

I assumed the role of a bear—what else could I do? If I had allowed myself one word of conversation, one word of pity, had I even pushed a chair for her to sit down in, I should have betrayed myself. Our comeradeship became a constant and a silent one. She would hold the candle while I mixed the medicine; she would obey my orders; she would serve as my apothecary. I even sent her heartlessly out of my sight to a distant ward to take care of some patient who did not require my oversight, when I found that my greedy eyes were too eagerly following her shadow on the wall. During the month she proved herself not only a good woman, but a rare woman—one of those who can meet the great foes of our race without blushing.

She was scholarly in her habits, and liked to read alone in her room. Often she read aloud (and very well) for the amusement of our little circle of convalescents.

Dr. Isaacs, of whom I had an ever growing distrust, had given me especial charge in this case to prevent her leaving the asylum on any pretense. He threw out the insinuation that there was a lover in the case, and there we were most sure to win her dupes, for what woman would not lie and scheme in such a cause? While my reason assented to his talk, my heart revolted. Why should it not revolt? I loved her myself, and dared not show it. I was not sorry, although I was growing weaker and more miserable than I had been a month before, that Dr. Isaacs refused my request for a holiday, and informed me that he was going to Europe for the winter, and I must remain as the head of the institution.

It was very near Christmas time, I think, that I was called to Miss Poyntz (one of our worst and most painful cases) an elderly maiden lady, afflicted from an unrequited attachment at fifty. Who can cure a broken heart at that age? It is like other old bones; it will not reunite.

Miss Poyntz had gashed her arm with a pen-knife, and was bleeding to death. With this loss of blood had come back her reason, and she had called loudly for help. Anais had heard her, and had rushed to the rescue. She had tied her handkerchief round the arm, and had forced her gold bracelet under it, thus forming an improvised tourniquet, which moved me to admiration both as a man and a doctor.

I could not conceal my admiration. Miss Poyntz had fainted, but was coming back to consciousness, and I seized the opportunity to kiss the hand that had so deftly saved a life, and I found time to utter a vow which has never been broken.

BREVITIES.

—Meadow larks do duty as quails on toast in New York.

—"Voluntary abduction" is what a western newspaper calls an elopement.

—The Boston Post goes so far as to say that the outrage mill is in want of a new whopper.

—Franklin Pierce alone, of all the presidents, eighteen in number, made no cabinet change.

—Louisiana proposes to have another annual holiday, and turn the 14th of September into a 4th of July.

—All our vanilla will one of these days be made out of rosin, as two French chemists have discovered a method for this strange extraction.

—The large hotels in Chicago are waging a furious war, and prices have been lowered at such houses as the Grand Pacific and Pullman to $2 50.

—Chestnuts should always be cooked before eating, as they are more healthy; besides, cooking imparts an improved flavor to the worm and stops its wriggling.

—The turkeys are about to hold a convention and return their thanks to the south for neglecting Grant's thanksgiving day, and to request a like repudiation of Christmas.

—Kentucky is preparing to send three belles to Washington this winter whose peerless beauty will make all the other girls look like unsuccessfull first experiments.

—People who saw him jump up and down thought him crazy, but he wasn't. He had merely delivered fifteen cords of wood at the wrong place.—Detroit Free Press.

—Large quantities of Alabama iron are being shipped to England. This is rather reversing the tide. It was but a few years ago that England supplied the western world with iron.

—A western poet, who had expressed a wish to die "amid the grand solitude of the eternal mountain tops," was recently killed by the explosion of a pint of ten cent kerosene.

—Gov. Allen, of Ohio, is sensible. It is announced his message will be short, not occupying over three columns of the Enquirer. He will stand some chance of having one out of every hundred read it.

—Six and a half feet of bride stood before the altar in a Paris church the other day, and promised to love, cherish and obey three feet and a quarter of bride groom; and that's the long and short of it.

—Delaware is peculiar at all times. This year she has a full legislature—thirty men—with not a lawyer among the number. There are farmers, and merchants and philosophers, but not a member of the legal profession.

—Jeddo is a miracle of cleanliness, according to the Japan Mail: "Notwithstanding the thousands of feet which tread the streets, they are as clean as the seldom-visited parks of the aristocrary. No one throws paper or any refuse in the streets."

—Governor Augustus Hill Garland, of Arkansas, proves to be a native of Tipton county, Tennessee. His mother removed to Arkansas when the governor was quite a lad. He is a nephew of Colonel Charles H. Hill and Dr. Lafayette Hill, of Covington, Tennessee.

—A man who had saved the life of a daughter of a Boston millionaire, received $2 50 from the grateful parent. He was so overcome with the magnificent bounty that he paid out every cent of it to seventeen organ-grinders to simultaneously serenade his benefactor.

—During yesterday's fog in London, Queen Victoria and her visitor, the Czarowitch, availed themselves of the obscurity afforded by the density of the atmosphere to repair to a rear court yard of Windsor Castle, and settle their difficulties in a good old fashioned scratching match.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

—The Ashtabula, Ohio, Sentinel says: "There is to be a big cheese at the Philadelphia centennial to weigh 28,000 pounds, (fourteen tons.) It will be about thirteen feet broad and eleven feet deep. Enough factories will furnish curd so that it will be made in two day's time, in May, 1876.

—Found, a large drove of the rustiest, crustiest, most starved-looking and impudent roosters ever hatched. They strayed into our yard via the exchange list, and are believed to have come from the democratic "fence." Their strutting is disgusting; it worries us, and the owners are requested to take them away.—Republican Paper.

—The executive committee of the North Carolina state agricuttural society offers the following premiums to the fastest printers: First, a silver stick to the printer who will set the most type in the course of an hour. To the second, a plated stick—the type to be set on the grounds at the next fair.

—The canebrakes and swamps of bayou Pemiscot, which lies close to the Mississippi river, partly in Arkansas and partly in Missouri, is full of the finest game, and offers great inducements to hunters, a number of whom are now there enjoying themselves. The region abounds in bear, panther, wild cats, wolves, deer and occasional elk, while aquatic fowls flock there in immense numbers.

—The other day Bishop Haven took an unfair advantage of a gushing youth at Marysville, in Marion county, Iowa. The bishop was dedicating a Methodist church, and soliciting subscriptions for it, and a certain young man whispered that if a certain young lady in the congregation would marry him he would give $500 to the church. And the bishop blurted it right out in meeting, and the young lady, like Barkis, announced that she was willing.

—Mrs. Livermore's blood boils and her spine rises when she comes to this part of her lectures: "Among the Brahmins in southern India, when the husband takes a wife he binds around her neck the badge of ownership, as you bind the badge of ownership about the neck of your Spitzbergen dog. She cooks her husband's food, stands behind and serves him, and when he has finished his meal, she eats what he has left, if he leaves anything, and if not she gets along the best way she can."

—A high school pupil in a cross-town car recited her geometry lesson to a fellow girl recently, as follows: If the angles of the base of an isosceles triangle are equal to the square of the hypothenuse of a right angle cone, then the rectangle of the diameter of a circle is equal to the square of the —ah—to the—ah—is equal to the—ah—to the square—to the—ah—oh, bother! gimme that book! I wish pa 'ud let me take dancing lessons instead of these horrible squares and angles and hypothenuses.—Chicago Journal.

—The wealth of the Hon. Wm. Sharon, who is almost certain of election to the United States senate by the new legislature of Nevada, is almost fabulous. The treasures of Aladdin are mean by comparison; and as for Jenator Jones, who is reputed to be the richest man in Washington, his circumstances are pitiable when viewed from the stand-point of his prospective colleague. A measure of Sharon's wealth may be found in his wedding present to his daughter, whose marriage was reported in yesterday morning's paper. It was $1,000,000. Besides there is this understanding between the father and the young couple that they shall be free of his purse. Yet the young attorney who married Miss Sharon will have made a bad bargain if his wife is not worth more to him than the round million dollars.—Chicago Tribune.

The New Party Cry.

The outrage mill broke down so completely, that its managers concluded to abandon it, and look for a substitute. That substitute it was decided should be "rebel" claims; and they have worked the new humbug industriously for the past two weeks, using fully as great an amount of falsehood as they did in the outrage business. The Chicago Tribune figured up the "rebel" raids on the treasury into hundreds of millions, every cent of which would be jerked out of the pockets of the tax payers if the democratic party be permitted to come into full power again.

The radical managers, with their usual mendacity and brazen contempt for truth, even invented specific falsehoods to base the new scare-crow upon, and we have scarcely taken up a radical exchange during the past week that did not contain or allude to a charge that ex-Senator Yulee was engaged in buying up slave claims at the rate of one hundred dollars for every emancipated negro. Of course he was doing this knowing that a democratic congress would pay all such claims.

By referring to our telegraphic columns, it will be seen that Mr. Yulee has been heard from. The story was very ridiculous. Mr. Yulee declares that no sane man would be wild enough to entertain it. It is well, however, that he has promptly pronounced the whole story absolutely false; for the pertinacity of radical journals when they get hold of a useful lie is wonderful.

It is too late to deceive the honest and intelligent men of the north with such nonsense. The outrage machinery has opened their eyes; and the more they look, the more they will see that the southern people want home rule and justice and peace, and not money. They are grateful instead of greedy. The prospects of deliverance that the recent political revolution holds up to them will never be coined into money. They will not hazard the grand results of freedom and self-government by claims of dollars and cents for emancipated negroes. And if any southern claims growing out of the war should be presented, we hope, with the Nashville Union and American, that they will be subjected to the severest scrutiny. If they come up at all, it will be through the dirty hands of professional lobbyists and northern manipulators. Let them be voted down and hooted out of sight.

Banks and Bank Notes.

The report of the comptroller of the currency is filled with interesting facts, even if they do look dry at first sight. From it we learn that the present number of national banks is 2,028, seventy-one of which were organized during the past year, with an authorized capital of nearly seven million dollars. During the year three banks failed, and twenty more went into voluntary liquidation. The year's increase of circulation amounts to $3,576,297. On the 6th ult. the total circulation was $351,927,246, leaving a little over two million dollars to be issued of the amount authorized by law.

The aggregate amount of circulation at the disposal of the comptroller, exceeds 47 million dollars, of which 16½ million dollars consist of unissued or withdrawn circulation. The latter will probably suffice to supply all applications under the new act for months to come, without any requisition on the banks in states that have an excess.

The amount of legal tender notes is $382,000,000, or considerable more than that of the national bank notes; and the comptroller proceeds to show their relative value to the advantage of the bank notes. There are now in circulation more than seven thousand different kinds of notes issued by 2,200 banks, and the process of purification now going on under the act of last June is very burdensome. The new notes, which are issued practically in exchange for mutilated bank notes, bear the charter number printed conspiciously in two places; and it is believed that in the course of three years the entire volume of national bank notes will have been renewed.

The comptroller recommends no amendments to the new banking act, as its provisions have not been thoroughly tested for want of time, He, however, recommends some amendments to existing laws, among which is the enactment of a general law in reference to savings banks, with judicious conditions and restrictions.

Our Distribution.

We are quietly moving ahead, and now that the first day of Derember has arrived, we shall quite soon distribute among our subscribers as fine and costly a lot of presents as were ever given by a newspaper. Our liberality in this matter is, so far as we know, unequaled in the South, or even in the West, where a number of the leading papers, including the Louisville Courier-Journal, annually offer gifts to their subscribers. To say nothing of the other presents, over two thousand dollars in money, and our splendid pianos, (costing $1,600), make a munificent offering. And then, be it borne in mind, all surely to become the property of subscribers, for there shall be no sealing, change or diminution in number, volume, or in any other respect. These presents are all now in our possession and owner-ship.

As our columns are greatly crowded just now we may say little about our distribution. But no subscriber can say we did not give him timely warning, if some day soon he sees the distribution announced and his opportunity gone. For after carrying out faithfully this distribution we shall have no more. If our local agents will just push matters, there will be no trouble in awarding our presents before Christmas—in a few weeks.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION gives a wonderful amount of local reading matter. Its reports of court proceedings are complete in every particular.

The above compliment we clip from the Conyers Register. Our court reports, together with those of legal and criminal matters generally, besides frequent other work on the local page, emanate from Mr. Howell Jackson, one of the editors on that side of the paper. In reproducing the above compliment, the managing editor takes occasion to add the first word of praise that his associate has ever received in these columns. During a connection with THE CONSTITUTION and a newspaper life of a year and a half, Mr. Jackson has steadily improved, until his editorial labors in his special department are performed with great accuracy and acceptability. We thank our cotemporary for his compliment.

OUR December fassion letter from the celebrated Jennie June appears on another page. The ladies will find it very interesting, and so will the men, too.

Revenue Appointments.

(By Telegraph to The Constitution.)

WASHINGTON, November, 30.—Appointments—S. W. Williams, store-keeper, seventh North Carolina, district; N. S. Hill, store-keeper fourth district of Georgia.

The Public Lands.

The annual report of the secretary of the interior shows that about 9½ million acres were disposed of during the past fiscal year—a decrease of one-quarter from the sales of the preceding year. At the same time 29½ million acres were surveyed, making the total quantity of surveyed land 649½ million acres, and leaving 1185 million acres yet to be surveyed, if we are so minded.

These figures indicate that we still jointly own an immense amount of land; but when we deduct from the big federal farm its sandy wastes and mountain peaks, and the utterly inaccessible and worthless portions, it will be found that there are no large amounts of valuable land left. Republicanism has donated the best parts of the public lands to its own members, through the multitudinous railroad schemes that have been devised during the last twelve years. In very many instances these railroad companies were organized solely for the purpose of grabbing valuable and saleable tracts of the public lands.

Secretary Delano calls attention to another class of thieves that may be called the timber grabblers, to distinguish them from their more magnificent brethren, the land-grabbers. It is claimed that the timber thieves are rapidly stripping all the valuable timber from the government lands, and that if the rate of this destruction continues in the future as it has in the past, there will be very little left in a few years. He asks the present congress to legislate against these theves, and protect the government's timber—all of which constitutes a joke of the first magnitude.

Other portions of the report give the results of Prof. Hayden and Major Powell's scientific work. The great American desert is no longer a mysterious region, for surveyors and pioneers are fast exploring every part of it. The secretary presents an elaborate statistical account of the land-grant railroads, which every citizen should read and inwardly digest. He advocates the measure of extending to the Indians the right to acquire farms under the homestead act; and his report shows that the pension list has reached and passed its maximum limit. The decrease of pensioners during the fiscal year was 2,170. There are still 236,241 names on the roll, whose annual pensions aggregate the sum of $26,254,071.

Sunday Services.

Our reports of Sunday services, and especially of the utterances of the pulpit, are receiving high commendation from our readers, and make one of the most interesting features of THE CONSTITUTION. Though it should not be so, the large majority of people do not attend church, and to many of them the sermons are entertaining, and ofttimes, we doubt not, profitable. The good people of the different churches, of course, enjoy the reports, and put them aside for quiet reading and reflection. By their perusal many are drawn to the sanctuary, and thus are we instrumental in bringing men under the influences of the preached gospel. This part of THE CONSTITUTION, then, is one of solemn importance as well as of mere entertainment to the casual reader. We hope to aid in this way the cause of relirion and help to swell the congregations that go up to the house of worship.

We have been led to these editorial reflections by a letter from Milledgeville, Ga., written by an estimable lady, inclosing a year's subscription to THE CONSTITUTION. In the course of the letter—after disposing of the business matter, saying that she was "not certain she would have the money next year, and concluded to make sure of the paper," while she did have it—she writes these lines: "I am much pleased with the synopsis of the sermons published in THE CONSTITUTION. If possible, give them more fully. They are worth the subscription of the paper."

THE St. Louis Times is one of the leading journals of the West. It is an eight page sheet, daily, tri-weekly and weekly. It is democratic, and that, too, to the core. It now offers $1,500 in cash premiums to subscribers. To all wishing a paper in that section of the Great West, we comend the Times. Send for a copy.

Trial of the Petersburg Election Judges—The Court Divided.

(By Telegraph to The Constitution.)

RICHMOND, Nov. 30.—In the United States circuit court to-day, Judges Bond and Hughes sitting, the judges announced that they disagreed in the Petersburg election case, and would certify them up to the supreme court of the United States.

Eight judges and three registrars of election in Petersburg were indicted under the enforcement act of congress for obstructing at the municipal election in May last. The counsel for defendants demurred to the indictments, and the points raised were elaborately argued.

AND PREVENTING COLORED MEN FROM VOTING

THE JUDGES DIFFER

on but one point, viz: That the persons prevented from voting were so prevented on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Judge Hughes holds that the indictments are fatally defective, and thinks this point should be made in order to let in the proof or inference of the motives.

Judge Bond holds that all motives of men cannot be looked into or proved except by their acts. It is sufficient to charge that citizens of the United States were prevented from voting, and that the motive of hostility to race may be inferred from the act of preventing a colored voter from voting.

The Transportation Convention.

OUR FASHION LETTER.

The Season in New York.

Music and Toilettes—Costumes for Day and Evening Wear—Luxuries for those who have Money.

[From The Constitution's correspondent.]

There are so few indications of a gay season, that every one takes it for granted it will be a very dull one, and perhaps they are right; yet there is a possibility that everybody for once is mistaken. Though not a "brilliant," the winter of 1875 promises to be a pleasant one. Business, which was so depressed up to the middle of November, is reviving, and reviving in the right direction—not in the purchase of a showy, meretricious class of goods, but in a considerable and widespread demand for the real and the genuine.

The approach of the holidays is an unmistakable test of the feeling which prevails among all classes, and it has stimulated the demand for a high class of jewelry, silver ware, and other costly articles to an almost unprecedented extent. Large firms are advertising for diamonds of exceptional beauty and value, the stock on hand not being sufficient to fill orders.

Change always means more or less of disorder, and the changes we are undergoing are only due to the panic of a year ago, as the panic was the result of the preceding inflation. High prices and the enormous profits made in business, induced thousands to rush into it, who had been engaged in the slower, but more useful office of production. The process of distribution was overdone, and when the re-action came, large numbers found themselves embarrassed by the obligations they had assumed in the way of rents and other expenses, and with little capital to fall back upon. All this was natural. It was simple ignorance or stupidity which made people suppose that a speculative prosperity could always continue, or that trade must not sometime come back to its natural level. For the past year it has been trying to find this level.

SOCIETY ENTERTAINMENTS.

Few large entertainments are ever given early in the season. Ladies are too busy with their toilettes and preparations for the holidays. When they are over the rush begins.

Informal refreshments are preferred, where refreshments are few and simple; and where special hospitality is demanded, small dinners or "high" Sunday evening teas. These teas are delightful, and have been made a feature by a charming woman who unites literary taste and high culture.

Dull as the season may be, and regularly as the days come round, it is a matter of no small difficulty to find a disengaged evening when there is anything special to be done.

Opera, theatres and society meetings take many of them, then there are the reception days and evenings of clubs and friends and relatives, and between all these, private and special visiting and hospitalities have to be worn in, leaving little margin for the exigencies of domestic or the necessities of working life.

The fall opera season, which has just closed, can hardly have been a very lucrative one to the management, the company being very large and expensive, and the audiences—during the early part of it—thin.

Society particularly the operatic part of it, in New York city, is largely made up of persons who live in the hotels and fashionable boarding houses, and who do not settle down for the winter until November. This, together with the general leaning towards economy, and the the fact that until the coming of Adelaide Patti was no great attraction among the prima-donni, that will sufficiently account for a discouraging lack of patronage, notwithstanding the completeness of ensemble and the superior manner in which operas have recently been presented, adding to operatic representation a charm which in New York it never knew before.

The latter half of the season, which gave us Albani Verdi's new work and a revival of Lohengrin, will long be remembered as a marvellous presentation of triumphs in musical art, and as furnishing a series of experiences worthy of a golden setting and of being put away forever in the gallery of remembered pleasures that are blessings.

Money is well spent on the highest form in which music can be given to us, as the interpreter of all the passions and emotions of the human soul, and when it is done with so true an appreciation of the power and capabilities, so conscientious an effect to fulfil the highest aim and purpose as is shown by the present direction of Italian opera, it ought to be met by liberality on the part of the public.

OPERA TOILLETTS.

No cause of complaint has existed on the latter score recently. The audiences have been large and brilliant in appearance, as they should be. Opera in undress is hardly opera at all. It has been distinctly observed that gentlemen pay more attention to the detail of their dress than has been the case for some years past. It is rare to see a gentleman inside the Academy of Music excepting in evening dress, and certainly, he would not dare to speak to a lady there if his costume were not irreproachable.

Ladies also exhibit great taste and elegance in their toilettes, though there is a marked absence of showy coloring. The style of dress not being adapted to evening bonnets, few are worn, except by ladies who occupy seats in the body of the building and who wear visiting costumes of which the bonnet or hat forms a part.

Light gloves added to this, pass muster but in; the boxes and dress circle, where there is any pretention to dress, no hats or bonnets are worn, only the hair arranged low in curls and braids, or that latest and most singular combination of the modern with the antique brown as the "Catogon" coiffure.

This style, which I have before described, consists in combing the hair, excepting a fringe over the forehead, in smooth waves towards the back of the head, tying it, and arranging it in a long single braid, which is fastened in a loop with a bow, cannot be permanent.

It is only belonging to very young ladies of a peculiar type and married ladies who attempt it seem to be affecting simplicity to such an extent that they gladly return to a braid which they can arrange as a coronet.

Small wreaths of flowers are much worn set up in front of the head, or a single flower, a red or white rose, upon the side.

GRAY AND BLACK.

More correctly it should be said quaker drab and black, are a very fashionable and elegant combination this season.

Gentlemen wear dress silk cravats and gloves of this soft shade of drab, and ladies unite it with black silk or velvet with fine effect.

One of the handsomest costumes seen at the academy was of black velvet with vest of drab satin, a drab feather introduced among the black plumes of the velvet hat, and light drab gloves to match.

Gray fox fur is in great demand as a trimming for black velvet costumes and polonaises, and with these skirts and cap bonnets of drab silk or satin are used the latter trimmed with drab plumes and ornaments of aqua marine.

Ladies are being employed by the most distinguished modistes for ball dresses in silk and tulle, the tulle puffed and platted upon the silk in infinitely varied forms, all arranged to follow the outline of the figure rather than to produce drapery: Scarlet geraniums or trails of red and white roses are prettily employed for ornamenting these dresses, which are particularly becoming to brunettes.

VELVET DRESSES.

The most distinguished dining and reception toilettes of the season are of velvet, very simply made but frequently enriched with an apron of netted jet, extremely flexible and call-like in its delicacy, but brilliant by gas light as a network of diamonds. These aprons must be made of real jet or they would be too heavy for wear. They are therefore very costly, but they have the merit of being rare, and in conjunction with a rich toilette very beautiful.

The dresses are cut with a plain trained skirt, square or V-shaped bodice and coat or elbow sleeves. The trimming often consists only of the sash, which forms a ladder of bows, or three loops and ends at the back.

Of course the style is varied. Sometimes the front of the skirt and the coat sleeves are made slightly bouillonee of black, gray or chamoise colored satin. This is when the velvet is black. If the velvet be colored, as sapphire, blue or violet, the satin front and sleeves are of the same shade or white.

The square boddice is usually accompanied by elbow sleeves finished with deep plaited tulle and ruffles of lace.

A suggestion made last year in regard to dresses of ceremony has been almost universally acted upon this year. That was to the effect that the bodies of such dresses should be uniformly cut, either square or heart-shaped as affording the best and most graceful compromise between high-closed and low-necked waists, one capable of almost infinite variation and uniformly becoming. That this style should be accepted as "full" dress in the same sense that "swallow" tail coat is thus accepted for gentlemen, enabling ladies who do not mix largely in society and only require a really handsome dress at infrequent intervals to lay them aside for such accessions, without the risk of entirely losing caste and fashion in the interval.

This is to-day the case in Europe. A square or heart-shaped boddice with elbow sleeves is accepted at the republican court in France as "full" dress; it is also the same in America, but why not make it permanent and to one style, at least attach the distinction and dignity of authoritive recognition?

SILKS AND STRIPES.

Striped fabrics occupy a minor position in the composition of silken toilette, whether they are of faille gause or velvet. In all cases the body part of the dress or costume is of a solid color; it is the overdress or trimmings only, which are of the striped material.

A pale, rose pink silk, for example, has a demitrained skirt ornamented with two festooned flowers edged with a plaiting of striped gause. The apron of plaited gause, bordered with silk fringe, is carried to the back and arranged to form a small pouf, a velvet or "spencer" which is a perfectly plain, sleeveless waist without the jacket extension, is also of the stripe; the sash is of plain silk. The body in such a case is always cut V shaped. The striped gause "spencer" following its outline The ruff, which is very moderate, is of plaited tulle and velanciennes lace. The sleeves are of the plain silk, demi-long, and finished to match the body.

A black velvet, three quarters of an inch in width, is worn at the throat, from which is attached a large gold cross or a rich jewelled pendant. It is not tied at the back, but is fastened with a clasp, which does not interfere with the hair or the bow.

A blue silk and gauze dress is prettily arranged in the manner described, and also pale canary or lemon color, but the blue, if the right shade, is of all others, the most effective. Striped velvet, when combined with plain faille, is employed for "at home" dresses by older ladies, and the plaited bordering upon the flounces dispensed with, as it makes the robe too heavy. But the spencer waist and apron are usually retained to give the same effect, and "knife" pleatings of silk used as trimming upon the entire costume.

VELVET AND WOOL.

The handsome woolen fabrics, soft and warm, yet light, which have been described in previous letters, enter into the composition of all street costumes, in conjunction with silk or velvet, but particularly the latter.

The union of velvet with wool in the nut brown, chocolate and plum shades, was a particularly happy idea, and is one of the great successes of the season.

The woolen fabric of diagonal serge, cheviot or long haired cloth, forms the body part of the double-breasted polonaise, the velvet, a plain walking skirt, plain, long coated sleeves, English collar and sash. The hat worn with this suit is of felt of the same color, trimmed with velvet and feathers to match.

FURS AND CLOAKS.

Preparations have been made for a heavy fur season, but the mild weather, protracted until so late in the fall, has very much disturbed these calculations.

People are in the mood to "get along" without whatever does not seem really necessary, and unless a sharp December shows I suggest furs as a useful holiday present, a large part of the stock will remain in the hands of the merchants.

Among the luxuries—for those who can afford luxuries—are circular cloaks of black faille or gros grain, lined with fur for carriage wraps. No trimming is used, and the fur edge being considered sufficient, but a large ornamental clasp is used for fastening, and a hood is added.

The seal is the popular fur of the season, and a seal skin sacque trimmed with otter, the most elegant fur garmeht.

Seal caps for ladies are shaped and turned up on the side like the ordinary felt.

Velvet polonaises and jackets are very stylishly trimmed with gray or silver fox fur, and with them are worn hats of gray velvet felt, trimmed with black velvet and natural, ostrich feathers, or bonnets of gray satin and black velvet. The soft crown of the satin, trimmed with a satin bow and full plume of black and gray feathers.

The satin bow, by the way, should be held by a buckle of jet and sapharino.

WHAT NOTS.

There is a great deal of luxury in under clothing for those who have money to spend. Pale pink silk hose, fine as lace, are used with strapped shoes of silk or satin, made of the material of the dress or its trimming.

Corsets are made of white satin, richly embroidered with white silk; and underskirts of palest pink or blue flannel, also embroidered with white silk and bordered with double ruffles of valenciennes lace.

Chatelaines, instead of the former pendant, have exquisite watches in oxydined silver, tortoise shell, onyx or jet attached, and are made of solid silver, finished in a "satin," and different and beautifully wrought.

Broad armlets of gold or velvet, fastened with gold or diamond clasps, are among the revived fancies, but are worn distinct and not connected as formerly by a chain with a bracelet upon the wrist.

The latest style of felt hat is called the "Albion." It turns up on both sides, lays close to the head, and is worn low upon the forehead. It is trimmed with a long ostrich plume.

The "Capote," a modification of the Charlotte Corday, is the favorite bonnet in velvet. In black it is always trimmed with jet and feathers.

THE HAND OF DEATH.

Havemeyer Dead—Suicide of a New Orleans Man.

(By Telegraph to The Constitution.)

BALTIMORE, November 30.—Mr. Wm. Ogle Key, aged 53 years, was found dead in his bed, at the Revert House this evening. The coroner's verdict was that he died from taking morphine to excess. Whether his purpose was to commit suicide, or from an accident, is unknown. Mr. Key is a native of this state, and is well known in New Orleans, where he was for a long time connected with the St. Charles Hotel, and recently from Mobile, where his family now reside.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Mayor Havemeyer died suddenly to day, aged 70 years. The sudden death of Mr. Jonathan Sturges, a particular friend of the mayor, made a deep impression on him, and it is said that he made melancholy remarks, both yesterday and to-day, of the uncertainty of life.

NEW YORK, November 30.—Mayor Havemeyer went to Flushing, L. I. yesterday, it has been ascertained, and spent last night at the residence of Mr. Oliver Charlock, who has been for some time very ill. He entered his office apparently in good health and commenced to read his correspondence as usual, when he suddenly fell to the floor. Every possible effort was made that medical skill could suggest. One of the friends of the mayor discovered his true position and it was suggested to summon a physician, but he declined, remarking, "I am now as well as I ever was, and will be all right when I get home."

NEW YORK, November 30.—This afternoon, Alderman Vance took the oath of office as mayor, for the unexpired term of the late Mayor Havemeyer. Havemeyer's remains were removed to his residence, in West Fourteenth street, this afternoon.

LONDON, November 30.—A circular letter from Archbishop Manning was read in all the Catholic churches of his diocese yesterday, declaring that all persons who do not accept the dogma of papal infallibility cease to be Catholics.

A PARDON REFUSED.

Colonel Moseby Applies for the Pardon of Brooks, a $700,000 Defaulter.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution.]

WASHINGTON, November 30.—Colonel Moseby, Mr. John S. Barber, and other Virginia gentlemen are in Washington on Saturday for the purpose of

SECURING A PARDON

for Mr. T. T. Brooks, formerly president of the first national bank of Petersburg, Va., who was recently tried and convicted in the United States circuit court, at Richmond, Va., for

EMBEZZLING THE FUNDS

of said bank, and otherwise violating the national banking law.

Mr. Brooks' friends brought with them and presented to President Grant a petition signed by the entire jury, the U. S. district attorney, and many prominent citizens of Petersburg, recommending a pardon, which the president, after a consultation with the attorney general, DECLINED TO GRANT.

Mr. Brooks' sentence, which was delivered by Judge Hughes on Friday last, is five years in the Albany penitentiary. The amount embezzled by Mr. Brooks is over $700,000, which involved the ruin of both the first national and the merchants' national banks, of Petersburg. The stockholders of the first national bank have been tendered one hundred per cent. to satisfy the claims of creditors. A large part of the stock of this bank was held by parties in Boston.

THE BEST AND LARGEST.—For fifty years the name of John Robinson has been a household word. He will shortly be with us again with his great show—in the circus are over one hundred artists—among whom is Robinson the elder, Stickney the unrivaled, Kelly the unequalled, while Emma Lake, the greatest of living equestriennes, is at the head of the female attaches. But why speak of the circus, when the menagerie is the feature of features. Here, in addition to fifty cages are the monster sea lions, the huge rhinoceros, the performing elephants, the pair of living giraffes, the giant ostriches, the herds of buffalo, and the three-horned sacred cattle; and remember, all can be seen for one price.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Touching Occasion at Trinity Church

Parting Words of a Loved Pastor to His People.

The services in Trinity (Methodist) church last Sunday consisted of the administration of baptism and reception of members, followed by the sacrament of the Lord's supper, after which the pastor, Rev. C. A. Evans, who has served this church the full four years allowed by the law of the general conference, took leave of his charge in the presence of a large congregation. He said that he felt great embarrassment in attempting to speak which ought to be said. Generally such words are not well said and such an opportunity has been sometimes abused. Occasionally, too, the chief sorrow of the separation is felt by the departing preacher. After relating one or two clerical anecdotes on his ministerial brethren, he proceeded to say that he could not but feel very deeply in parting from a kind and generous people with whom he had been associated for four years in the delicate and tender relation of pastor and people. He had been in sympathy with them all these years. Felt their sorrows and rejoiced in their joys. He had been with them in their bereavements, and had wept with them over the graves of their loved ones. He could not now part with them without betraying some of that feeling which moved his heart.

THE LAST WORDS

THE PEOPLE OF ATLANTA

had all treated him with kindness. He had received from all denominations much unexpected consideration. He desired to thank several of the city papers for many favors. From his own charge he had received such proofs of regard that he had no words to express his gratitude. His salary had been more than paid from year to year, and recently he had been visited by his congregation with generous gifts in their hands.

As some general statement of

seemed to be expected, he desired simply to say that he had tried to labor faithfully for Atlanta and the church. During his four years he had taken no vacation, and had worked on from day to day, with no other interruption than such as were caused by physical debility. Atlanta had greatly prospered, and Methodism had also advanced. There were now over two thousand white members of the Methodist church in Atlanta, besides the membership of five colored churches. Since the beginning of his term the First Methodist church and Trinity changed from their original building to the present splendid structures. St. Pauls, St Johns, Peachtree Street churches and Pierce chapel had been built. The Methodists had raised and expended in the cause of Christ $100,000, being an average of $25,000 per annum. He thanked God for giving prosperity to this generous people. Trinity church now had nearly 530 members and during the last four years has had in all 825 members. About 300 have been transferred, removed or died. During this time he has received about 450 members by certificate and conversion.

He said that it had been his desire to and keep alive the simple, fervent old-fashioned religion taught in the New Testament. That he had not done all that he might have done. Many mistakes have been made, and complaints could be very justly offered but as he also had grounds of complaint he proposed a bargain: If the people would forgive him, he would forgive them, and if they would not say anything against him after he was gone, he would not say anything against them. So far as his interest in Trinity was concerned, it would never cease. He had served two other churches, and was still working for them, as he would always work for Trinity.

Now, you ask

WHERE I AM GOING

next year. I answer that I do not know, and indeed I have very little anxiety about it. I will get work and wages, which is better than many men will have. The bishop knows what I can do, and will send me to as good a place as I can fill. I keep in light machinery order. When I became a preacher after a bitter struggle with myself, I made up my mind on the matter and have been happy in my ministry. If I get another such good place as Trinity I shall be very grateful, and if I am sent to a hard work I will go and do my best. I can, anyhow, take my wife and the baby, and hire out the other children. The important member of my family says she is willing to go to any good place that it pleases the bishop to send us. And now, brethren, be assured that the bishop will appoint with earne t desire to suit you and serve our cause. Receive him with open arms. Turn to him with your warm hearts. Give him honor and reverence, and inspirit him for his heavy work. Cultivate brotherly kindness among yourselves.

YOUR NEW PASTOR

Take care of all your new members. Entertain the strangers who cast in their lot with you, and above all live in holy consecration with God.

I pray that God may bless you all. God bless old and young. May He guard tenderly the lambs of his fold. And now brethren, sisters and friends, I must say farewell!

In conclusion of the services of the day an earnest impressive prayer was offered by Rev. J. E. Godfrey, and the congregation departed under the last benediction of their pastor.

The best wishes of THE CONSTITUTION and the people of Atlanta attend General Evans wherever he goes, one of the truest, noblest, grandest and most tender-hearted of christian men.

LINES WRITTEN TO A YOUNG LADY OF MACON.

BY FATHER RYAN.

So young in years—
How many tears
Have flowed from those pure eyes of thine,
And dimemd the face
Where beauty's grace
So loves to linger and to shine.

And why so sad?
Have all things glad,
Like summer birds, so far from thee?
Ah, lonely child,
Storms far more wild,
Shall beat against thee on life's sea.

The father's tomb
Has cast a gloom
Along the path of thy young years;
Thy mother's wail
Hath filled the vale
Of thy young heart with bitter tears.

So young! and yet
Grief's hand has set
His mark upon thy brow so deep,
And dimmed life's light,
Changed day to night,
And made thine eyes so prone to weep.

Thy little hand
In this sad land
Had scarcely tried to cull joy's rose,
When it was torn
By sorrow's thorn,
And spring-time turned to winter's snows.

But, child of grief,
There is relief;
God is the God of orphans lone—
He hears their prayer;
They are his care;
He stoops to listen when they moan.

And, could He weep,
His tears so deep,
Like golden waves would wash thy way;
But, Oh! lest sad,
His smiles are shed
Upon their hearts each night and day

No angel knows
From cloud of woe
Why blessings to the orphans come;
And He alone,
Who hears their moan,
Knows how to lead them to His home.

PRAYER.

God of the fatherless, guide her;
Let Thy angels walk beside her
Adown the thorn-strewn years.
God of the fatherless, love her
When grief gathers dark above her,
And wipe away her tears.

God of the fatherless, keep her;
Watch the lonely little reaper
From Thy throne of love on high.
God of the fatherless, bear her
Where the reaper is the wearer
Of thy crown beyond the sky.

Atlanta Wholesale Price Current

[CORRECTED DAILY.]

CONSTITUTION OFFICE,
Atlanta, Ga., November 30, 1874.

REMARKS.—There has been more animation in financial circles during the week. An improved demand for loans was greatly experienced, and more acceptable paper was offered than the banks were able or willing to accommodate, and favors have been somewhat restricted. The amount of money has increased, still not sufficient to supply the demand. Merchants and business men are meeting their paper very promptly. Stocks and bonds are in very moderate demand.

In comparison with other cities cotton has brought a good price during the past week. Receipts during the week 3,462. This with previous receipts foots up 33,632 bales this season.

We have nothing now to report in the dry goods market. While the trade has been a little more active during the week, the aggregate of business has been small. Since the great victory in the political world, there has been rather a lull in pretty all branches. Doubtless this dullness will "let up" during December and a more general activity will prevail.

Bacon—There has been none in this market during the week.

Bulk meats.—There has been but a small supply of meats on the market through the week, and no sales of importance were effected. Our city packers are beginning now to put some of their meats on market; it is, however, only partially cured.

Flour.—There has been no change of importance in this market since our last report. Perhaps the demand has slightly increased. Still the trade is devoid of animation.

Wheat has been in less demand and the market ruled quiet.

Corn.—The offerings were more liberal; no increase, however, in inclination to buy, and the market ruled rather dull through the week.

Molasses.—There is a moderate consumptive demand, and the stock not very large. The market is firm.

Potatoes—The market is rather dull, the demand being hardly equal to the supply, but prices did not undergo any change.

Butter—The general features of the trade are about as reported in our last.

Cheese—The market remains quiet, the demand being rather light.

Poultry—Live chickens and turkeys are in pretty fair demand. The market is being well supplied with dressed poultry.

Green fruits—November has been rather warm to suit the wishes of dealers.

HAVE YOU TRIED

JURUBEBA

ARE YOU

Weak, Nervous or Debilitated?

Are you so Languid that any exertion requires more of an effort than you feel capable of making?

Then try JURUBEBA, the wonderful tonic and invigorator, which acts so beneficially on the secretive organs as to impart vigor to all the vital forces.

It is no alcoholic appetizer, which stimulates for a short time, only to let the sufferer fall to a lower depth of misery, but it is a vegetable tonic acting directly on the liver and spleen.

It regulates the Bowels, quiets the nerves, and gives such a healthy tone to the whole system as to soon make the invalid feel like a new person.

Its operation is not violent, but is characterized by great gentleness; the patient experiences no sudden change, no marked results, but gradually his troubles

"Fold their tents, like the Arabs,
And silently steal away."

This is new and untried discovery, but has been used with wonderful remedial results, and is pronounced by the highest medical authorities "the most powerful tonic and alterative known."

Ask your druggists for it.

LAND AGENCY.

TEXAS
LAND AGENCY!

HAVING spent part of the last three years in Texas, and having been repeatedly solicited by parties owning and controling large tracts of land in that State, I have determined, after thoroughly, investigating the whole subject matter, to open a LAND AGENCY to some eligible point in the

LONE STAR STATE

at an early date. With seven years' experience in the REAL ESTATE BUSINESS in all of its details in Georgia, the business will not be new. Parties owning or controling lands in Texas can for the present address me at Rome, Ga. My partner and myself propose to give our attention exclusively to the business in all its details. Bring and conduct suits of ejectment, re-establish titles, sell and convey lands and pay taxes. Best of references given. Correspondence earnestly solicited. Address JOHN T. BURNS & CO. Rome, Ga.

MEDICAL.

SOUTHERN BRANCH
—OF THE—
NATIONAL SURGICAL INSTITUTE
Wall street, opp. Passenger Depot, N. Side.
ATLANTA.....GEORGIA

THIS is an Incorporated Institution, with ample capital, and a thoroughly organized Surgical and Medical Staff for the treatment of Congenital and Acquired Deformities of the human body, and diseases or conditions requiring surgical operations, or mechanical appliances for their relief or cure; also, for the treatment of diseases peculiar to females, for paralysis and other affections, as shown in Illustrated Circulars. The Southern Branch is now in successful operation in Atlanta.

The building occupied is of brick, new, large, well ventilated, well furnished, and supplied with machinery power, gymnastic arrangements, Electrical Instruments, vapor, electric galvanic and other Baths, vacuum treatment, movement apparatus, and many other appliances from the original Institute in Indianapolis, Ind. An ample corps of skilled assistants, and apparatus makers, has been brought here, and the whole is under the charge of Surgeons of well known ability and skill. Three hundred patients are already under the treatment of the Southern Branch, and the results are highly gratifying and satisfactory. Call and examine the methods of treatment, and the facilities for carrying forward the work. Address

DR. CALHOUN'S LIVER PILLS.

I AM engaged in the manufacture of the Celebrated Family Medicine, known as the Calhoun Liver and Anti-Bilious Pills, under the supervision and assistance of Dr. Calhoun himself. This Pill has been in use for the last 35 years, and has taken precedence over all other Family preparations by all that have used them. Thousands would certify to their great value if necessary. One fact should supercede any amount of certificates, and that fact is this: Dr. Calhoun has been physician to the Fulton County Prison for over seven years, when the number of prisoners ranged from 30 to 70, laboring under all the diseases incidental to this climate. With but few exceptions they have all been treated with this Pill, and astonishing to say during that long period not a solitary death occurred under his treatment. This fact is worth any amount of testimonials.

I am now prepared to fill orders from druggists, merchants and others. All orders sent me shall receive prompt attention. There is no type of FEVER, DYSPEPSIA, DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, RHEUMATISM, CHOLERA MORBUS, BILIOUSNESS and SICK HEADACHE, or other diseases of a Southern climate, but yield readily to this preparation.

For sale by all druggists.
Price 50 cents a box.
None genuine unless it bears the signature of N. C. Williams and picture of Dr. Calhoun. Address N. C. WILLIAMS,

DR. SIMMONS affirms that this is the very best Liver Medicine to which his name has ever been connected; and we know from the many testimonials that we receive, there is no medicine equal to it for Dyspepsia, Constipation, Chills and Fever, Bilious Croup or Wind Colic, Bilious, Sick or Nervous Headache, and for all other diseases arising from a disordered state of the Liver.
